To whom it may concern:

I have known and worked with Patty Weiner for over a decade. Her knowledge, caring and ability to access services for children with health issues and academic difficulties is extraordinary. Her work with The Making Headway Foundation's On-Going Care Team and the staff of Hassenfeld Children's Hospital for Cancer and Blood Disorders at the New York University Medical Center makes Patty a valued team player. Patty has a wide network of colleagues in Manhattan and is able to help the children and their families with educational planning, and school advocacy. Patty also has a unique talent and capacity to find the appropriate specialists to assist parents with their many needs in the fields of healthcare, psychosocial issues, and emotional concerns. Patty's talents are many and her ability to follow through and be there for the parents is superb. She approaches each family with remarkable sensitivity.

Sincerely,
